Terrorism Introduction

Terrorism's goal: FEAR!

- Terrorists use fear to make political, religious, or ideological gains

Environmental threat factors and threat levels

- 3 factors are used in determining the Terrorism Threat Levels:
 - Local terrorist groups
 - Levels of activity and sophistication
 - Attitudes of local populace

FORCE PROTECTION

OGDEN AIR LOGISTICS CENTER

Force Protection Condition (FPCON)

Alterable by regional and local commanders

- Low - No identified threats
- Moderate - Terrorists are known but there are no indications of anti-U.S. activity
- Significant - Terrorists are working to cause significant American casualties but have limited capabilities
- High - Terrorists are working to cause significant American casualties wherever or whenever there is a substantial DoD presence

FPCON Levels

Normal

- A general global threat of possible terrorist activity with no indication of a probable attack

Alpha

- A general threat of terrorist activity which the nature and extent can't be predicted

Bravo

- Increased and more predictable terrorist threat exists
- Violence is probable but installation not specifically targeted
- Additional security and coordination with local authorities
- This is our usual FPCON level

Personal Protection Methods

Practice good personal security habits:

- Plan activities at safe places
- Travel with someone
- Conceal your military/government affiliation as applicable
- Keep a low profile
- Look for suspicious behavior
- Be unpredictable in your routines, routes, and times
- Be invisible - fit in, blend in, and don't stand out
- Plan ahead

Giving Information to First Responders

What to do:

- Approach first responders slowly:
- Show your hands
- Indicate that you have information
- Tell first responders:
 - Shooter(s) location
 - Number of shooters
 - About the shooter(s)
 - The number and types of weapons used
 - The number of potential victims
